Background of the CBMS implementation

Rationale:

- Absence of disaggregated data

Implementation:

- 1st Round - 2007 – Survey, encoding, validation and editing
- 2nd Round - 2011 – Updating, e-CBMS (using laptops)

Status of CBMS:

- ✓ With the updated data, it has become the basis in all planning endeavors of the City
- ✓ Considered as the most reliable grounding in providing interventions
- ✓ Maximum utilization of the data

Lessons Learned

- All data generated are useful except for the definition of “employment” which was define on the basis of the number of hours an employee works, which means that if an individual is employed even in an hour for a week is already considered as “employed”.

- Program dubbed: DBC CARES (Delivery of Basic and Comprehensive Constituency Assistance and Responsive Services). The program is designed to deliver a package of appropriate services to the most eligible beneficiaries.

How was the data used?

- It started with the interventions and initiatives under the DBC CARES, a name coined to give reference to the program of the LGU administration which was considered as the Milestone of the city.
- Other programs followed utilizing the CBMS data
- Considering its reliability most of the government agencies, CSOs, legislators, service providers confidently refer to CBMS data in terms of beneficiaries targeting and enactment of measures.

Challenges Encountered

CHALLENGES ENCOUNTERED	SOLUTIONS
Inconsistent data	-Data validation - Editing - Updating
Delayed implementation	- Hire additional enumerators - Survey using QS forms instead directly to the system
System flaws/ Printing of reports	- Reported to the CBMS focal of the province

Recommendations:

- Institutionalization of CBMS down to barangay level through legislation by Congress
- Much higher honorarium for enumerators for the next survey period
- Increase appreciation of the data generated by the system.
- Enhance the CBMS by unifying all the survey indicators.

Next Steps:

1. End-users training
2. Another round of CBMS implementation

Daghang Salamat.
